

GREAT BATTLE NEAR SHAKHE

Japanese Plan to Capture Mukden at Once and Rush Matters Quickly.

BESIEGERS ARE NOW REINFORCED

Sixty Thousand Fresh Troops Have Joined Oyama's
Forces and Are Within Touch of Russians' Headquarters.

London, Nov. 18.—A general battle in the vicinity of Mukden has been commenced, according to dispatches received from Tien Tsin, Gen. Kuroki being reported to be leading the troops toward Mukden.

The Japanese are now within twelve miles of the city, to the eastward, and their guns can be heard in the city.

With this beginning of a general battle 60,000 fresh troops have arrived at New Chwang and Pitsewo to join the left wing of the Japanese army, and preparations are in progress along the Shakhe for an attack on the Russian right wing.

These reports indicate that the Japanese have determined on a final attempt to capture Mukden before the operations cease for the winter. The dispatches indicate that the attack is being made from either end of the Japanese army, Nodzu to lead the attack on the Russian right, Kuroki already leading that on the left, and Oku ready to join in the fighting from the center.

The Czar and Port Arthur.

While no great reliance is placed in war office circles in the report from Rome to the effect that the czar intends to order the surrender of Port Arthur, it is admitted by St. Petersburg official latest dispatches that the czar regards the situation there as extremely critical. The dispatches of Gen. Stoessel, while they told of Russian successes, also did not hide the fact that the garrison is hemmed in within the citadel itself.

Reports received later assert that the Japanese have captured an important outer fort.

The czar fears that Stoessel, having been wounded by a shell, will yet be killed in his daring and personal defense of the fortress, and he fears that if Stoessel dies all is lost.

Some satisfaction is gained by the Russians in the news that Gen. Nogai's nine-day attack failed.

Japanese Accuse Chinese.

The Rastoropy affair has led to complications, and the Chinese are now accused by the Japanese of having aided the Russians in the execution of this plot to sink the torpedo boat destroyer at Chefoo. Indications of this unrest on the part of the Japanese are shown by the presence of three of the Mikado's torpedo boats that are lying outside of the harbor. Their purpose in remaining there does not appear. Just why the Chinese are charged with having turned against the Japanese and to be aiding the Russians is not apparent.

The Chinese warship Hai Yung has taken a position in the Chefoo harbor, where she will be able to protect the Russian consulate in case of need.

During the day the crew of the sunken torpedo boat destroyer were busy carrying off from the wreck what in the way of arms, provisions, etc., could be rescued. These were transferred to a Chinese vessel.

The sinking of the Rastoropy, on the other hand, has relieved the Japanese of an embarrassing position. A repetition of the Rastoropy incident would have aroused indignation, while a failure to destroy or cut the destroyer out would have appeared like admitting previous wrong doing.

At any rate, the affair seems to have caused some uneasiness in official circles, particularly regarding the stand Japan has taken in accusing the Chinese of implication.

Vladivostok Is Strengthened.

It is asserted in St. Petersburg that the newly constructed fortifications at Vladivostok have strengthened that fortress, making it now almost impregnable. The harbor has been thoroughly mined. A dispatch admits the reported injury to the protected cruiser Grombol. She is now in dry dock undergoing repairs.

Advices from Harbin tell of Japanese steps to frustrate spies in the garb of Chinese. Troops have been ordered to shoot anyone in Chinese garb observed approaching the line, for fear they may be Russians in disguise, or may even be Chinese spies hired by the Russians. A reward of $25 has been offered for every one of the latter class captured.

Ships Are Sunk.

All of the railroad steamers belonging to the Russians, except the steel screw transport Amur, are reported to have been sunk by Japanese shells.

The hospital ship Angara, formerly a transport, has been sunk in shallow water, but the patients are still aboard and being cared for comfortably.

Dispatches tell of the hanging of a Chinese spy by the Russians. A silk clad Chinaman was seen signaling by means of a handkerchief while traveling in a sampan, and these signals were to Japanese gunners, who were throwing shells into the Russian lines.

HAS RESIGNED HIS PLACE BECAUSE OF HIS HEALTH

Panama Canal Commissioner Retires Because He Fears the Climatic Conditions.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The resignation of Col. Frank J. Hecker of the Isthmian commission was the result of serious friction in the commission. Other changes are expected to follow Secretary Taft's visit to the Isthmus, during which he will carefully investigate charges and complaints against other commissioners. Admiral Walker will hereafter be the actual as well as the theoretical head of the commission, directly subordinate to Secretary Taft. If Gen. Davis is not removed as governor of the canal zone, his powers will be restricted. Minister Barrett will be supreme in negotiations for the settlement of all disputes with the Panama government.

Cause for Resignation.

In tendering his resignation Col. Hecker says he is afraid of the climate of Panama. An investigation of the facts shows that his retirement has been anticipated by those close to the president and Admiral Walker.

It is charged that Col. Hecker conducted himself in a manner calculated to arouse the conclusion that business interests were guiding him largely in the performance of his duties. Immediately after the commission reached the conclusion to purchase 1,000 dumpcars, Col. Hecker, it was discovered, wired friends in the United States urging them to vote for it.

The Oshkosh Free Employment agency, the fourth in the state, was opened on Thursday. Henry Schreiber is in charge. The private intelligence offices in the city, two in number, are forced to suspend.

contract. These friends, it is said, began to lobby for the contract. Admiral Walker took steps to frustrate the work of the lobby.

It is charged that Col. Hecker tried to secure the retirement of John F. Wallace, the Chicago drainage canal engineer selected by the president to superintend the engineering work of canal construction.

Criticizes Red Tape.

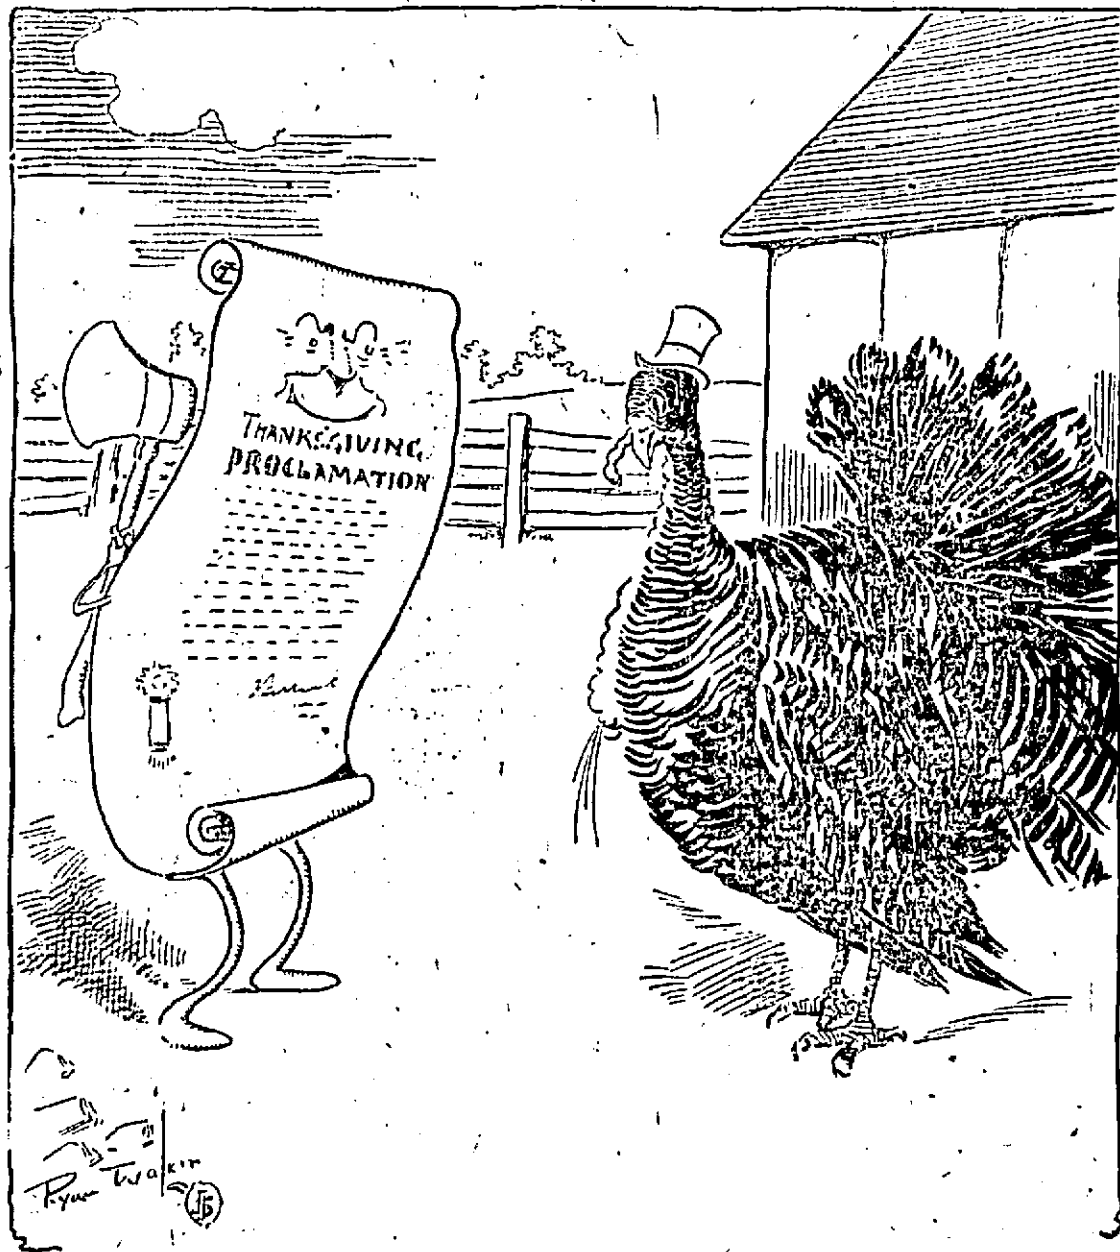

Mr. Wallace seriously criticized Hecker's business methods and the way he proposed handling the $10,000,000 preliminary appropriation for beginning the work.

It is claimed that Col. Hecker was interested in big lumber and other contracts. He disapproved of what he called the "red tape methods" of the commission, and had several clashes with Admiral Walker.

In conversation with friends here Col. Hecker said the "red tape methods" of the commission were responsible largely for his resignation. He asserted that he was a "man of action," and could not tolerate the slow procedure adopted by Admiral Walker and his other associates upon the commission.

Secretary Taft and his party started for the Isthmus Thursday night by way of New Orleans. The secretary of war will be taken to Colon in the warship Dolphin.

The Rev. Father Lochman, lately appointed vicar general of the Green Bay diocese of the Catholic church, was presented with a valuable bookcase by the Sunday school pupils at Our Lady of Lourdes parish, Marinette.

FLAMES ARE SPREADING RAPIDLY

Peoples Gas Company Plant on the South Side Is Almost Totally Destroyed by Flames This Morning.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.]

Chicago, Nov. 18.—By the explosion of a small tank of gas at Seventy-fourth street and South Chicago avenue at ten o'clock this morning the buildings of the Peoples Gas company adjoining have collapsed, and surrounding property is threatened with destruction. The police assert that ten or twelve men, employees on the premises, are in the ruins and several are believed to be killed. Following the first explosion four or five tanks became ignited and blew up. The residents in the neighborhood have fled in terror. Windows were shattered by the concussion, chimneys wrecked and roofs damaged. Fire which followed is rapidly approaching two huge tanks that contain hundreds of thousands of feet of gas. The efforts of the firemen seem futile. Should the large tanks ignite many will probably be killed. Five workmen are known to be injured.

Fire Originated

The fire originated in the plant of the Pyle National Electric Headlight company, a sub-tenant of the gas company. Small storage tanks rapidly became ignited and exploded in quick succession. At least a dozen explosions occurred. The flames then spread to the big plant of the Peoples Gas company. Twenty-five men are employed in both plants and but six are accounted for. Five were taken to hospitals. The fate of the remaining nineteen is unknown. It is feared they have been cremated. The fire has spread to 75th street and Greenwood avenue and now is so fierce it cannot be reached within a distance of three blocks.

One Body Recovered

One body had been recovered at eleven o'clock. It had been blown a quarter of a block away. At eleven-thirty another body was found, also blown outside the limits of the flames. The firemen say there are probably eight more bodies in the ruins, and that the injured will aggregate eight or ten. A sudden change in the direction of the wind caused the flames to start away from the two large tanks, which will probably be saved. They are being deluged with water.

Many Explosions

The force of the explosions was sufficient to partially wreck the dwellings within a radius of four or five blocks. In one building two hundred feet from the Pyle plant five people were badly injured when it collapsed about them. The loss is estimated at a hundred thousand.

More Bodies

Two more bodies have been removed from the ruins. The authorities are notified that there were at least thirty men in the buildings at the time of the explosions.

RAILROAD MEN ARE NOW AT THEIR OLD PLACES

Big Companies Employ All Men Who Were Laid Off Last Spring—Will Smash
All Records.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.]

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 18.—With settled political conditions as a basis for financial confidence and harmony in all other elements that make for prosperity, the railroads of the country are experiencing a great revival of trade that has so grown that traffic now is expected to smash all records. To meet this new condition the railroads have within the last six weeks restored to the pay rolls more than 40,000 men employees who were dropped during a period of a few months ended with June 1st.

In this list the Pennsylvania company, which made the most sweeping reduction, has put back to work on its many systems 11,000 men; the New York Central has restored 6,000, the Reading system in the neighborhood of 3,000 and other eastern and western lines as many more.

New Equipment Is Ordered.

In addition to this, all the railroads which were compelled to economize in the purchase of freight cars during the gloomy period have ordered new equipment. The New York Central within the period extending from three weeks before election up to the present time has ordered 5,000 new freight cars and 105 new locomotives. The Pennsylvania has ordered 6,000 new freight cars, besides a large number of new locomotives. With the other roads the orders will exceed 10,000 new freight cars.

That the election was the pivot on which the 65 of business turned is the assertion of all railroad officials.

William C. Brown of the Lake Shore declared the portion of the month of which election day was a part was the largest in the history of the system in point of traffic. Mr. Brown was speaking for the New York Central, the Big Four, the Indiana, Illinois and Iowa and the Lake Shore.

"The New York Central system is today working full time," said Mr. Brown, who has charge of the operating of the road. "Within six weeks the company has taken back the men dropped last summer. All the time the outlook was not bright and special, as well as general, conditions made retrenchment imperative. Those conditions have disappeared."

Big Crop Causes Increase.

Charles E. Fugh, second vice president of the Pennsylvania, said the restoration of confidence in the business world had caused the system to put back to work all the men dropped last summer.

J. T. Harahan, vice president and general manager of the Illinois Central road, said the enlargement of working forces and equipment was general over the country.

"The taking on of more men and the need of greater equipment," said Mr. Harahan, "is due to the big crops this year and to the prospective heavy increase in freight traffic. The result of the election has been satisfactory from a business viewpoint."

MR. AND MRS. F. T. RICHARDS SURPRISED LAST EVENING

JEROME DAVIS LOST AN ARM

Well Known Beloit Boy the Victim of the Deadly Corn Shredder.

Jerome Davis, a young man well known in this city, lost his left forearm Thursday morning on a corn shredder on the Davis farm about nine miles west of this city. The arm was so badly mangled that it had to be amputated at the elbow.

Mr. Davis is a brother of Mrs. A. J. Dearhammer and Ralph Davis of Beloit, and he was until a few months ago employed at Stimmer's. Novelty store in that city. He is an excellent young man and his misfortune will be grieved by his many friends here. The shredder was a new one which had been purchased only a short time ago and was a very large and powerful machine. Although Mr. Davis was an expert with the old and smaller machine, yesterday morning was the first time he had attempted to operate the new one and the accident resulted.

UNLOADING BEETS AT THE ROCK COUNTY SUGAR FACTORY.

Monday was an exciting day at the beet sugar factory. Not only for the growers but for the factory officials as well. It will be remembered that last week each grower was restricted to hauling but one load of the beets per day, and that in the middle of the week, owing to an oversupply, all hauling was suspended. No more beets would be received until Monday. Now, as is natural at this time of the year, and with so many other things to attend to before genuine winter weather sets in, each farmer is anxious to get his crop of beets hauled to the factory and off his hands as soon as possible. Not being able to haul very many tons last week caused a delay that Mr.

Beetgrower did not like and he determined to have a big load ready to start for the factory early Monday morning. And in order to make the work move along faster, he hired men and teams to haul for him. This same thought seemed to strike every grower simultaneously. As a result the roads leading to the factory were filled for nearly a half mile each way with wagon loads of beets awaiting their turn to be unloaded. At times during the day there were more than two hundred teams in line. Men who left their homes Monday forenoon were lucky if they returned before dark. Some who reached the factory as early as ten o'clock a. m. were obliged to wait until four or five

p. m. before unloading. There they were obliged to wait—not patiently, for remember they were men. The noon hour came and with it the desire for dinner and where to get something to eat was the next query. Fortunately two bakery wagons were sighted and in less time than it takes to tell it, they were emptied. Those two bakery wagons certainly did a land office business that day. Such an astonishing number of beet growers congregating at the factory at one time nearly paralyzed the officials and in order that such a mob should not occur again no man would be allowed to haul a load of beets Tuesday without an order from the office.

MARIAN MARNE WRITES OF VERY LATEST FASHIONS

New York Correspondent of The Gazette Has an Interesting Letter on Ladies' Dress.

Notwithstanding the deserved reputation of taffeta silk for cracking, splitting and spotting, no outfit is worthy of the name of being fashionable in which at least three or four gowns of this material are not included. We have hoped for better things from the many brands of silk with the word "Guaranteed" on the selvage, but the result has always been the same—a worthless gown after a few times wearing.

But at last we are offered a silk that is perspiration-proof, and will neither crack nor split, and we urged to ask at the time of purchase for the bond of the manufacturer counterbalanced by the merchant of whom we buy the silk, to reimburse us if the silk is not all that it is represented to be. This idea eliminates the usual questions asked regarding wearing possibilities. So the silk gown has certainly come to stay for her whose wardrobe is limited as well as for her who could indulge in silk the wearing qualities of which were problematical.

Clifton Bond suiting, of which the gown in my illustration is composed, lends itself charmingly to the prevailing styles, being exquisitely soft, lustrous and effective in the shirrings now so fashionable and possessing the requisite amount of "body" to be successfully pleated into the tremendously flaring bottom without which no gown is truly smart.

The dark Bond suiting frock shown is finished at the edge of each pleat with a row of dark blue velvet ribbon, a dark blue velvet waistcoat, and white Rajah undersleeves, giving the gown its true cachet.

The strikingly handsome costume on the other figure here shown is a rich dark red Burlington, the long coat having reverses of Persian lamb, the same curly black fur edging the Chinese hat, which in turn is matched with a Chinese muffs—a combination in fur not unusual this season.

Another unusual and very popular fur shown by Gutlohn is a most perfectly dyed imitation of Russian sable at less than a tenth of its cost, and some of the smartest dressed women who enjoy a variety of furs, are wearing it with their handsomest gowns as well as for automobile wear.

Burlington, which is having such an unprecedented vogue, is a raw silk of Burmese-like weave which owes its great appreciation by our modern modistes to their growing understanding and appreciation of the triple artistic in fabrics. Added to its wonderful wearing qualities, Burlington, which bears its name on the selvage, is the most artistic production of today, and as is rarely the case with novelties, bids fair to be the favorite silk of tomorrow as well.

With the interest in the question of good health as a great factor in the development of beauty the harmful practice of light-lacing is seldom indulged in, so nothing need be said on that score, but the proper adjustment of the corset is not as widely understood as it should be.

A good model of straight front corset, such as the C-B in Spilrite, should be selected, and if it be brought well down so as to clamp about the hips, with the lowest clasp below the abdomen, the strings being then moderately and comfortably drawn together, the corset instead of being pernicious will be decidedly beneficial to health as well as appearance.

WIPE OUT ALL OF THE OLD CROWD

This Seems To Be the Sentiment at the University at the Present Time.

Madison, Wis.—The Wisconsin football team appears to have taken a brace. Critics pronounce the work at practice better than at any time during the interval between the Michigan and Minnesota games. There is much to be done yet, however, before the game with Chicago Thanksgiving day, for the coaches have shifted the team about greatly, changed the formations and some signals, and there is danger that team play will be lacking unless earnest work is done in the few remaining days of the practice. Bertie is back at his last year's position at left guard and Finlay is at left tackle. Stromquist is being used at fullback, the place he played before coming to the university. The change of signals is due to the fact that Ralph Hamill, who umpired the Wisconsin-Minnesota game at Minneapolis and is now coaching the Chicago team, may be familiar with the Wisconsin signals, although it is said that the Badgers used only five different plays during the entire Minnesota game. The change of formations consists in abandoning the open play which the Wisconsin coaches have tenaciously adhered to all the season and adopting the close formation. The reason for this is because the Wisconsin style has been ineffective and because the stronger teams are playing the close formations.

An incident has developed which suggests that Coach Curtis sees in the newspaper correspondents instruments to assist him in springing a surprise on Marshall field next Thursday. He requested a number of correspondents to send out "bear" stories and say that the daily work at Camp Randall is very unsatisfactory and that the Badgers are without hope of being effective against Chicago. The point to be gained is to give the Chicago team great confidence and bring about that disastrous state of mind called over-confidence. It would surely appear that it is not necessary for the Badger authorities to manufacture "two" sentiment here. The defeat by Michigan and Minnesota has effectively done that and notwithstanding the late, reliable good reports from the training field it will be difficult for the Chicago team to greatly fear the Badgers and enter the Thanksgiving day game with any other than a highly confident feeling.

The cry of "clean out the bunch" recently heard among students at Madison, meaning the determination to make a complete change of athletic coaches, trainer and manager, will doubtless be successful. Manager Kilpatrick has already handed in his resignation and it will be accepted Friday night at a meeting of the board of directors of the athletic association. Trainer Andrew M. O'Dea has confirmed the report that he will not train the team next year and may not remain here as coach of the crews and instructor in the gymnasium. Head Football Coach Curtis has determined to enter the practice of his profession as a physician. There remains only Assistant Coach E. B. Cochems. He greatly desires the position of head football coach for next year and has told his friends that he has not had a chance to show his ability this season and ought to be given a trial. He complains of the peculiarities of Coach Curtis and of the interference in the coaching department of Trainer O'Dea. It seems assured that if the present graduate-professional system be retained at Madison Mr. Cochems will be head coach, although E. R. Driver, coach of the freshmen, is being urged by his friends. The faculty favors the present system. The large majority of the students want a coach such as Booth of Nebraska. McCornack of Northwestern or ask for the return of Phil King.

Even the severest of the tailor-mades are this season showing dressy touches that make them suitable for afternoon occasions as well. The John Forsythe model shows an adaptation of the Louis Quinze design, developed in a deep rich dahlia red cloth, and the dressy touches are offered in the clever way that braids are used in conjunction with lace stitches on the coat and basque. There is no collar and just the hint of a vest down the front, and the place usually occupied by the darts is filled with the broad lace, the cloth being cut away beneath to display the printed silk lining. The skirt fits snugly, though not at all tightly, over the hips, and below the knee a full circular flounce is applied in irregular scalloping, these and the trimming straps being all piped with suede that exactly matches the cloth. There is a train of medium length, and the entire hem is faced with velvet dyed to match the cloth, this forestalling the effect of wear upon the sat-in surface of the goods.

GROWERS WERE WELL PLEASED

WITH THEIR VISIT AT THE SUGAR FACTORY.

SAW THE WHOLE PROCESS

Of Manufacture, from the Washing of the Beets to the Sacking of the Fine Finished Product.

Skirting the southwestern portion of the city yesterday in the "special" provided through the kindness of Agent Walter Johnson of the St. Paul road, the Janesville Grocers' association found the entire landscape "punctuated" with sugar beets. There were carloads of them in the railroad yards, wagon-loads, crossing the bridge near the Monterey dam, more wagon loads crossing the bridge near the new fire station, brimming gondolas side-tracked in the rear of the Hough Slade factory, and "whole mountains of them on every side of the new institution they were to inspect. Piloted by Theodore Hapke the party admired for a moment the mosaic work that adorns the "crest" of the 100 foot chimney and then passed on to examine the four sheds, grouting with 1,000 tons, from which tributary channels of steaming water convey the roots into the main current which carries them to the factory.

Weighing and Testing

The visitors saw the beets carried through the washing trough, thoroughly rinsed by the great revolving arms, lifted in the bucket elevator, weighed automatically, and dumped half a ton at a time into the big hopper at the bottom of which the revolving knives cut them into thin strips. Over to one side of the washing department the chemists were busy weighing specimens from the various consignments with and without the dirt to get the percentage of waste, and testing them to ascertain the proportion of sugar.

The Steeping Vats

After their encounter with the knives, the beets lose their identity as such and the tiny strips are merged into a solid mass which flows like a stream of spaghetti down the chute and into the battery of fourteen upright vats. There it is steeped many times by hot water under pressure and when the saturations are completed the water, with its accumulated treasure, is carried off for the next process, while the pulp is removed from the bottoms of the vats, passed through a press, and carried to the drier.

Carbonating Process

The juice, parting company with the pulp, is now on its way to the measuring tank where the quantity is recorded. This little formally concluded, it enters the carbonating tanks where it is introduced to a heavy solution of water and lime. Way up in the fifth story of the building is a laboratory where carbonic acid gas is being manufactured. The best juice and the milk of lime have not mingled long when they are treated to an injection of this gas which causes the lime speedily to dissolve partnership with the juice, carrying in the precipitate the undesirable non-saccharine matter. The juice is now pumped to the filter presses where it is forced through canvas and relief of the precipitate. After another carbonating and filtering process, it is ready for its first stage of evaporation.

Seas of Syrup

Successfully it passes through the five big boilers, growing thicker and thicker in each stage. These boilers are provided with glass "port-holes" through which may be seen the lucid seas of syrup lashed into fury by the heat. Another injection of the purifying gas and filtering process awaits the syrup upon its issuance from the last boiler and after that it is carried to one of the two immense receptacles on the third floor, where it is subjected to a further evaporating process. On this floor also are the "paper machines" where obnoxious salts which prevent certain molasses from crystallizing are removed.

6,000 Whirls a Minute

From this last evaporating process the syrup issues as a mass of crystallized sugar and molasses. It is now drawn into the centrifugal machines directly below where it is treated to 6,000 whirls a minute. The substance is driven from the bottom to the sides of these great revolving cups of brass and the molasses is forced through the perforations, the crystals remaining in a solid mass. While the whirling process is going on the operator is industriously wielding a large sprinkling can containing a solution of bluing and water. When the centrifugal is stopped the brown mass has been converted into one of gleaming white. The material is still damp and resembles the so-called "coffee sugar."

The Revolving Drum

An immense revolving drum, discharging great heat, completes the drying process and in the next metamorphosis the fine-grained sugar is seen dropping from chutes into the sacks and barrels prepared to receive it. The bags contain 100 pounds, and over a thousand of them are being filled every day. There can be loaded into each 35,000 of these sacks and three carloads are being shipped every twenty-four hours.

In the Pulp Drier

The visitors yesterday were much interested in the pulp product, which when it has been subjected to terrific heat resembles in appearance certain varieties of green tea. This product sells for $12 a ton and a new warehouse to store it is now being built. The big rotot where the lime is burned, and the cooper shops were also visited.

Much Pleased With Visit

Mr. Hapke, Supt. Wolfe, and Mr. Osborne did all within their power to make the visit an agreeable and interesting one, and the Grocers' association members were much pleased with all they saw, as well as with the fine quality of the finished sugar product. Besides those mentioned yesterday as being in the party, there were General Foreman Fox of the St. Paul road, John Nolan, Charles Tarrant, George Baumann, and Cove Van Kirk.

Edwin Mead was on switch-engine number 1030 Wednesday afternoon and yesterday as fireman. He returned to work in the round house this morning.

General Notes.

Charles A. Parker, vice president in charge of traffic of the Pere Marquette-Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton system, died of heart disease in his office in Cincinnati day before yesterday. He was born Sept. 22, 1855, at Phillips, Mo., and entered railway service when 20 years old as a clerk in the freight department of the Santa Fe system. Mr. Parker served for two years as the head of the Colorado railroad associations, vice president of the Missouri Pacific, chairman of the Western Trunk Line Committee, freight traffic manager of the Missouri Pacific, and with the freight department of the Santa Fe and the Mexican Central.

A rate war has broken out over the Minnesota-Northwestern football game Saturday; the Wisconsin Central announcing a rate of $1 from the Twin Cities to Chicago and return, the limit being Sunday. As soon as the cut was made by the Wisconsin Central the Chicago Great Western and the Minneapolis and St. Louis also came down to the $1 rate. The occasion is said to have been made an excuse to duplicate the rate recently made by the Northwestern and St. Paul from Chicago to St. Paul.

The Lake Shore pay car is now on its last trip. Hereafter J. H. Hinkley, chief paymaster for fifty years, will send checks instead of taking the money on his car.

It is reported that a bill will be introduced in the next Texas legislature providing for the merger of the Canoe Belt road with the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe.

Your Dental Work Must Be.....

Painless.

There are various degrees of PAINLESS WORK IN DENTISTRY. Some do the best they can but even they cannot do the work without hurting if they do not have the proper appliances.

We use the WILCOX JEWETT OBTUNDER for such work as grinding teeth for crowning or removing the nerve. The instrument distributes chloroform, anesthetic to all sensitive parts of the tooth and gum which renders the work absolutely without pain.

Your teeth should be examined. We request that you call any time for consultation and advice, which is always cheerfully given.

Coming Attractions.

So many times has drama that appealed to the eye failed of public patronage that many managers are now learning a lesson that should have been learned years ago that one must have real flesh characters with real flesh and blood talk, talk that appeals to the senses and passions of the listening public. This is fully exemplified in "The Price of Honor" which comes to the Myers Grand next Monday, Nov. 21. It tells a clean cut story produced in the play this year and of love, intrigue, devotion, charity, justice, and childish paths that never fail of effect and impressiveness, for a long tour.

The various scenes are held in New York and contrive to show some of "His Highness the Boy," an original the great city's most historical at three act musical comedy, will be spots. It is a plain story of plain people, plainly and impressively told.

The New Village Postmaster.

"The Village Postmaster" seems to be a case of the revival of the fittest, while many rural dramas have come and gone, this play, one of the oldest of them all, goes on serenely and successfully, and is now playing to the largest business it has ever done. It has aggregated 227 nights in New York, and 125 nights in Chicago, to say nothing of the numerous runs in Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia and other large cities in the East. The period of this famous play is back in 1852 when Franklin Pierce was running for president and women were modest cottage bonnets and shawls. Oddly enough the correct dressing for men and women of this period had never been seen on a New York stage till "The Village Postmaster" was produced. The history of the company were just sure they were going to be "frights" and the men wore the clothes under protest. But when the papers came out next morning, after the first night, and spoke of the "quaint charming pictures they made" and said that probably no play had ever been produced there with such careful attention to detail, they were consoled and were happy, for success is a great cheer.

Samuel Gompers has sent a letter to the Chicago Federation of Labor declaring that, unless the latter organization complies with the rules of the American Federation of Labor by the 1st of March, it will be expelled. The trouble is over a dispute between two organizations of plumbers.

It is said Reading, Pa., has a larger number of working people compared with its population than almost any other city of its size in the country. In a total population of a little over 78,000 in 1900 there were 62,890 who were 10 years of age or upward. Of that number 35,767 were employed in useful occupation.

California Information

California is a big state, large of area, rich in natural wealth, tremendous in its scenic features and with a future full of great promise. Every American is more or less interested in knowing about this wonderful commonwealth.

A forty page folder with more than half a hundred beautiful illustrations and a complete colored map of the state has been issued by the Chicago & North-Western railway. It contains in condensed and interesting form, a mass of information on various subjects of interest, including a list of hotels at California tourist points with their rates, capacity, etc. Sent to any address on receipt of four cents in stamps, by W. B. Kniskern, P. O. Box, Chicago.

Excursion Rates to Chicago

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway will sell round trip excursion tickets to the International Live Stock exposition, Chicago, Nov. 27, 28, 29 and 30th. For rates, tickets, train service and other information apply to the ticket agent.

JOSEPH HARRINGTON OF NEW YORK CITY SAVED FROM PNEUMONIA BY FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE.

Some time ago, I was attacked with a severe cold and cough which nothing seemed to relieve. It grew steadily worse until I was told that my trouble was likely to develop into pneumonia. A neighbor who had used Father John's Medicine with very satisfactory results brought me part of a bottle and advised me to try it. I did so and within a short time I could see that it was helping me. I continued to use it until I was entirely cured. My wife has used the medicine for throat and lung troubles with excellent results and so have many of our friends to whom we have recommended it. (Signed) Joe Harrington, 202 West 23d St., New York.

THE VILLAGE POSTMASTER.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, November 18, 1864.—The vote of the 13th—A soldier of the 13th writing to a friend in this city says: "Yesterday the destiny of the nation was decided and I suppose we shall know soon whether or not we shall give the south all they ask for the sake of peace, or whether we shall fight them until they come to us and say: 'Give us peace at your own terms.'"

The writer then goes on to give the vote of some of the companies of the regiment. Company A of which he is a member gave 67 votes for Lincoln and none for Mac. Company K gave a solid vote for Abe and Andy. But some of the other companies who have received very large accessions from the substitutes since last year gave more copperhead votes than last year whereat the writer is very much disgusted.

The portion of the regiment whose time has expired have been mustered out and he thinks they will reach here early next week.

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50-cent bottle of Green's warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

WHERE IS THE MONEY.

The total deposits in all the savings banks of the world, according to latest official information received by the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics, amounted to over 10 1/2 billion dollars, contributed by $2,640,000 depositors. Of this total the United States shows aggregate deposits of $2,060,179,000, credited to 7,305,000 depositors. As the figures used in arriving at the grand totals cover about one-half of the population of the world, viz., over 770 million, it appears that the United States, with less than 9 1/2 per cent. of the total population considered, contributes over 29 per cent. of the total savings deposits recorded. Of the total number of depositors, or rather deposit accounts, the share of the United States is somewhat less than 9 per cent., while the average deposit per account is more than four times and the average savings per inhabitant more than three and one-half times the corresponding averages for the rest of the world.

It is interesting to note that in Europe and even in Canada the functions of the government in this field are larger than in this country, where the state restricts itself merely to formulating the general legislation pertaining to the subject, sanctioning special charters for the creation of savings banks, and controlling through special officers the proper workings of said banks. The European governments in many cases have shown greater interest in this mode of popular saving, either by guaranteeing the safety of deposits or by instituting government insurances, chiefly postal savings banks, for the receiving and managing of savings deposits. In some countries, such as Russia, Bulgaria, and Roumania, the lack of private initiative and the preponderant influence of the state in the entire economic life of the nation have caused the development of public savings banks to an almost exclusive extent; in other countries, such as Germany, Switzerland, and France, the local public bodies, such as the communes or cantons, from the very outset invited and fostered the deposits of small savings by establishing municipal savings institutions. Wherever the central government is in immediate, though not exclusive, charge of the savings service, as in the United Kingdom, Belgium, and Russia, parts of the deposits are invested in government securities, so that the public savings institutions there serve the double purpose of providing a safe investment for the capital of the less well-to-do and commercially inexperienced class of the population, as well as of strengthening the public credit of the country by attracting investments on the part of such classes, which, left to their own initiative, might not choose this, or for that matter any other mode of investment.

The common feature of all savings banks, no matter how organized, is that they are not working for profit, the underlying idea being rather to make the deposits as secure as possible. This results naturally in an interest rate on deposits considerably below the normal commercial rate prevailing in the respective countries. The figures as shown in the table below reveal different degrees of what might be termed the "savings capacity" of the different nations, though it should always be borne in mind that the amounts deposited with savings banks by no means represent the only savings of a nation. Another factor which makes comparisons difficult is the fact that apart from differences in legislation, leaving to these institutions a greater or smaller latitude of freedom of investment, the regulations regarding the maximum amounts which may be credited to one individual vary according to country; and that therefore the average size of the savings deposit casts but little light on the general prosperity of the people and the more or less equitable distribution of wealth among them.

The general social conditions of a country, the spread of general education and "banking" habits among the masses, existing facilities of communication, the ease and lack of formalities with which savings are made, and last but not least the use made by the population of other modes of saving—all these factors have to be considered when international comparisons of savings statistics are attempted. To give but a few examples: The total savings deposits of France, as stated in the table below, appear less than those of Austria, while the aggregate savings deposits of Prussia are shown to exceed those of France by almost 80 per cent. Any conclusions with regard to the relative prosperity of these countries based on these figures would be erroneous, as in France the savings banks deposits constitute but a part, and by no means the larger part, of the total savings of the nation. As a matter of fact, the investments of the French people in Russian public bonds during the most recent period only, not to mention the holdings of the enormous national debt at home, according to the most conservative estimates exceed by far the amounts deposited in national savings institutions. In the case of Austria the figures given are somewhat misleading, since the postal savings banks there are engaged in the general banking business, the amounts reported as ordinary deposits exceeding those under the head of savings deposits.

BIG AUDIENCE SAW "THE BILLIONAIRE"

Tuneful Music and Gorgeous Costumes Pleased—Lines Not So Good.

Seabrooke—"I am glad you realize that my dream of thought is not a mere rendezvous for hair."

Joe Intrepid—"I was born in eighty."

Seabrooke—"What floor is that on?"

The Billionaire to Mrs. Silas Peppercorn: "Are you any relation to a lobster?"

Mrs. Peppercorn, snuggling up to Mr. Seabrooke: "No, but I am the next thing to one."

The above are some of the lines of "The Billionaire," a musical farce presented before an immense audience at the Myers theatre last evening. No. 1 is fairly good; No. 2 will pass; No. 3 is coarse and vulgar. "The Billionaire" depended on its "sparkling" dialogue and repartee, or plot, or any vestige of reason for being, for success, an unsympathetic world would long ago have turned thumbs down. Luckily, amends for these shortcomings are made in the gorgeous costumes, tuneful music, good chorus work, and attractive stage settings. The theatre scene in the last act, with complete stage and adjustable moon, parquet and balcony from which a good sized audience views the condensed melodrama and the beautiful Pansy dance, and listens to the terrible warbling of Harry Jake the Cowboy, a part taken by Charles Ogle; John Stepping as Rheinhelster, the stout theatre-goer and his boy; and Joe Intrepid in the role of Mrs. Peppercorn, succeed in making the audience fully as interested as the people on the stage upon the stage. The latter is one of the best artists in the cast. Her costumes are nightmares in salmon pinks, greens, and yellows, and her extraordinary attempts at French are mirth-provoking to those who have a knowledge of the language. Diamond Donner is dainty, graceful, and interesting. Walter Percival sings well. Thomas Q. Seabrooke tries to create a character that stands out from the others in the cast. No one thinks of him as a "Billionaire" except when he reminds his audience in song that they ought to have heard of him as such. Perhaps that is the fault of the playwright. Mr. Seabrooke was inarticulate at times last evening. He mumbled the first words of his songs, faced the wings instead of his hearers and at times seemed almost to challenge them by his indifference to dislike him if they dared. The songs "Glory" and "Lead the New York Pipers Every Day" were pleasing and Mr. Seabrooke received several ovations for his "Little Streak of Heaven That They Call Broadway."

SOCIETY WEDDING THIS AFTERNOON

Miss May Merrill and Clayton Tanberg Married at Home of Bride, by Rev. Denison.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Merrill, 129 Madison street, this afternoon at four o'clock their daughter, Miss May Ella, was united in marriage to Clayton O. Tanberg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. C. Denison. Miss Merrill is a young lady prominent in social circles of the city and a graduate of the Janesville high school in the class of 1902. Mr. Tanberg is a prominent young man of the city and a rising employe of the North-Western road, being now the day ticket agent in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Tanberg leave this evening for a two weeks' trip in the east, where they will visit friends and places of interest. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. The parlor was made most charming by the use of white roses and green foliage with a wedding bell of the same flowers. The dining room, in which an elaborate supper was served immediately after the ceremony, was decorated with pink roses and foliage.

and the tables were bedecked with assortments of the same hue. An arch of flowers graced the bay window off from one of the rooms and a bank of potted plants beautified the background.

MADISON ELEVEN HERE TOMORROW

High School Team Meet at Athletic Park—Second Team in Fort Atkinson in Morning.

Tomorrow's football game at athletic park may be the last the local high school team will play this year. Thanksgiving day ends the season and as yet no game has been scheduled for the locals on that date. The talk of the team members and the enthusiasts show that Janesville anticipates a hard game, and the fact that Madison intends to bring down a crowd of rooters demonstrates that Madison thinks Janesville will put up the right kind of a game to make their eleven hustle. The local eleven will line up the same as last Saturday with the exception of right end

WONDERFUL PEN PICTURE GIVEN

THE DESCRIPTION OF THE CANAL ZONE IS BEAUTIFUL.

MISS HUMPHREY'S LETTER

Third Charming Description of the
New Possession of Uncle
Sam.

(By Mary H. Humphrey.)

Ancon, Panama, Nov. 2.—The western terminus of the canal zone is called Ancon. The canal zone, being a part of the United States possessions, is under the government and jurisdiction of the United States; hence it has its own post-offices, law courts, and officials. Although Ancon is, geographically, a part of the city of Panama yet officially and governmentally it might be a thousand miles away, as far as any business connection is concerned. It is located at one end of Panama, on the Pacific coast. To give directions according to points of compass is out of the question. No one can and no one attempts to explain why the sun rises out of the Pacific and sets behind the hills. To take a map and try to figure it out is no purpose; we have tried it. One just feels as if the sun has gone crazy down here in the tropics and is making its trip backwards. There it is every morning at 5:30, rising straight out of the Pacific, when it ought to rise from behind the hills and set in the Pacific, so we just give up the unsolvable problem and do not try to find the points of the compass.

On a Hillside
The larger part of Ancon lies on Ancon hill, all of the hospital buildings and many of the residences of the officials, as well as most of the office buildings. The hospital buildings are the highest up and lie close against an extinct volcano which towers almost perpendicularly a mile above the hospital buildings. The sides of this volcano was a mass of tropical vegetation when the canal commission took possession, but they have had this all cut and carried away for half the distance up the volcano as this vegetation was a breeding place of mosquitoes.

The Hospital Buildings
The view from the hospital building is one of the most beautiful to be seen anywhere. To the left are the low mountains or foot hills of the Andes in the distance, with a very fertile valley in between, covered with tropical vegetation, and the Panama railroad winding through it.

Panama Bay
To the right, lies Panama bay with all of the shipping of the Pacific coast dotting its surface. At night it is a beautiful sight to see the lights on the ships twinkle here and there all over the bay. To one who sees the tropics for the first time, the hospital grounds are an endless source of interest. They are laid out with landscape gardening such as the grounds of any public building would be in the States, only that the trees and shrubbery are all tropical and hence new and strange to one from the north. Occasionally one meets an old friend in the rose garden, or recognizes a familiar acquaintance, grown almost out of recognition in its tropical profession, in the heads of foliage plants, begonias, and oleanders.

Royal Palms
The driveways are lined on each side with the royal palms imported from Algiers, the most beautiful of all palms. The trunks are like Corinthian columns, so straight and symmetrical. These are perhaps 50 or 60 feet in height and are crowned with the graceful palm leaves radiating in every direction from the summit of these pillars like beautiful ostrich plumes. The coconut palm is similar to the royal palm in its growth, but nowhere equal to it in symmetry and grace. It was these palms that suggested to the Moors the graceful pillars and beautiful arches of the Alhambra at Granada, Spain.

More Palms

Scattered here and there about the grounds are another species of palm that is unique in its growth but not graceful or beautiful. It is a native of Jamaica and is called "The Soul's Delight" because somewhere in its anatomy (I have not learned where) is stored up a quart or more of water. This palm grows to a height of thirty or forty feet. The trunk extends up perhaps twelve or fifteen feet when it splits up into stems which spread out like the ribs of a fan and are topped with the palm leaf, the faces and backs of which overlap each other, the whole effect being a striking resemblance to a lady's huge feather fan set on a pillar. The effect is very striking. Here and there about the grounds are huge ferns, such as we cultivate so carefully in our homes and hothouses. There is one long row on one of the least used driveways of orange trees which are now laden with fruit which is just ripening. The oranges here are all green when ripe. The flavor is not as good as that of the California oranges. Bananas and coconut palms are everywhere present. Some bananas taste very different from those we get in the States. They are rich and sweet with a stronger banana flavor than I have never met with before, but it is rare for them to get them for these are the ones that are ripened on the trees. The bunches are picked green here for immediate use as well as for shipment as they ripen too rapidly if left on the tree and cannot be used up before they spoil.

The Fruits
There are breadfruit trees, paw-paw (spelled phonetically), mangoes, limes, and many other tropical fruits of which I have not yet learned the names. The paw-paw resembles a watermelon on the exterior and a pumpkin on the interior. It is used for dessert, eaten raw with lime juice and is quite delicious. They are a species of palm and the fruit grows from the top of the trunk just as the coconut does. One of the most gorgeous flowers is the hibiscus. It grows everywhere and blossoms profusely. The jasmine is equally as common. It has a pure white blossom, umbel in florescence, resembling our philox, although the blossom is much larger. It has a very sweet perfume. There is a vine which grows profusely that has a carnation blossom which is as beautiful as I have ever seen. The flower is small and dainty but grows on a raceme which is often seven or eight inches long. The color, grace and beauty of this flower must be seen to be appreciated.

It is near Panama that the Holy Ghost flower grows, and nowhere else in the world. As I have not seen the flower yet a description of it will be reserved till some future date. There are many curious trees and plants on the hospital grounds which I have not been able yet to learn the names of, and, too, they must be seen to be appreciated.

IF JAMES IS WILLIAM AND WILLIAM IS DEAD

Then James Had No Business on the Highway and Guess-It-All
Has a Grievance.

Anent a certain walking exploit on the part of an aged man Guess-It-All, finds the Gazette greatly in error. Guess-It-All abandons a fatuous pursuit for news to sit down and complain bitterly because the man the Gazette called James was really William, and William is only sixty years old, can't walk, and is dead. Of course if this is true of James, he had no business on the highway. But we shall continue to believe until some real reason to the contrary is forthcoming, that James is James, and as James still lives and has his being. No one should force him to be William, who is dead, without his full consent as well as that of William.

Two Men Receive Eight Months to Meditate Over Their Crimes.
-Frang O'Gar, the gentleman of leisure who appropriated one of the coats displayed in front of Ziegler's store recently and was caught "with the goods on him" by Acting Marshal Brown a few hours later, will have eight months in Waupun to meditate over the enormity of his crime. The same is true of another wanderer, Albert Snyder, who, night before last, "borrowed" a coat from B. A. Clechawowski, a guest at the Riverside hotel, without leave and was also captured by Officer Brown in the railroad yards. He will be allowed the same privilege as Mr. O'Gar and will have plenty of opportunity to discover Jansville is a bad city to play tricks in the future.

Going to Milwaukee: The Jansville chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution are to attend the annual conference of that order in Milwaukee on November 21 and 22. The meetings are to be held in the club rooms of the Pfister hotel and it is expected that many of the Jansville members of the order will attend.

The Birthday Club: A unique club has been formed in the first ward, which held their first gathering last Tuesday at the home of Miss Alice Chase. The club gave their hosts a spoon in commemoration of her natal day and later played checkers. Mrs. M. J. Conroy was the lucky player and received the prize.

Ira Bingham of Koshkonong was in the city today.

The Rev. John Flgge, former pastor of the German Presbyterian church of Beloit, has been called to the pastorate of the English Presbyterian church at Creighton, Neb.

SAYS WIRING IS VERY POOR HERE

THE WESTERN UNDERWRITER OF CHICAGO SPEAKS OUT.

AND RAPS THE CITY COUNCIL

For Repealing the Wire Ordinance and Says Something About the Fire Chief's Position.

"Electrical Conditions at Jansville" is the caption of an article appearing in the November 17 number of the Western Underwriter, an insurance men's journal published at Chicago. The remarks will be of interest to the property-owners of this city as it is a foregone conclusion that if these defects exist and continue to be unremedied there will be a raise in insurance rates. It is as follows:

Wiring is Very Poor
"Inspection of the electrical equipment at Jansville shows the outside wiring to be very poor and in need of overhauling. A few months ago the city council passed an ordinance providing for the removal of all overhead wires in the business district, but the measure has been repealed recently at the request of the lighting company. It is alleged that the chief of the fire department, who is ex-officio inspector, is not energetic, fearing the influence of the heavy stockholders in the electric light plant. A formal protest will be filed with the mayor and the aldermen against the present lax system."

A Five Foot Raise
The substitute ordinance passed after the underground wire measure was repealed, provides for raising the wires from their supposed present status at 35 feet to a line 40 feet from the ground. When this is complied with much of the present likelihood of interference with the firemen's ladders—as in the recent case of the Rock River Cotton Co.'s mills and danger to the men who handle the hose, will be obviated.

Report of Inspector
W. B. Boyd, electrical inspector for the National Board of Fire Underwriters, who visited Jansville this fall and made a report his fall, said that he was very much surprised to find the wiring in such poor condition. This report was addressed to the city council of Jansville but for some reason no attention was ever given it. He said: "The overhead wiring in your city needs very careful consideration. In many places signal wires pass over electric light and power wires without the installation of a proper guard equipment to prevent possible contact in case these wires should fall. Signal wires should be equipped where they enter buildings with a suitable protective device which will prevent serious damage in case accidental contact occurs between these conductors and those carrying a current of higher potential. This device should include high tension fuses, a current protector, and lightning arrester, located as near as possible to the point of entrance to the building."

Lines Close to Buildings
"In a number of places pole lines pass in close proximity to buildings, which would prevent efficient operation of the fire department when called to extinguish a fire of any magnitude in the higher buildings, as it would become almost impossible to effectively throw water through windows which are partially screened by these heavy pole lines. The successful handling of ladders is also seriously interfered with."

Underground Ordinance
The famous underground ordinance was framed by the city attorney and fire chief at the request of one of the aldermen, who later introduced it. It was later repealed, all but one or two aldermen voting for the repeal. The fire chief, so far as is known, never retreated from the opinion that it would be much better to have the wires underground. The aldermen did the retreating. When it was a foregone conclusion that the ordinance would be repealed, no wise man would continue to butt his head against a stone wall.

NORTHWESTERN IS PLANNING FOR A

Big Extension of Service in Northern Part of Wisconsin at Once.

The North-Western railway is to make several important extensions in Wisconsin. Work which already has been arranged for will give the company a double-tracked line from Gillette, Wis., to Chicago, a distance of 260 miles. The improvements also will shorten the line between Green Bay and Chicago and Gillette and Chicago.

One extension will be from Manitowish to Green Bay, a distance of forty miles, and another will be from Green Bay to Gillette—a distance of thirty-six miles. The management also is figuring on making important extensions in upper Wisconsin, possibly with a view of getting into closer touch with the copper region.

To Reach Michigan Line

At a recent meeting of North-Western directors it was decided to build an extension from a point on the main line near Mercer, extending northeasterly to a point on the boundary line between Michigan and Wisconsin. Still another extension, for which papers have been filed, will run from a point in Forest county and will extend to the Wisconsin-Michigan boundary at Sanderson, the aggregate length of the two lines being fifty-five miles.

COUNTY BOARD CHOSE STARR

AS NEW SUPERVISOR OF ASSESSMENTS.

VISITED THE SUGAR FACTORY

W. J. McIntyre Elected a Trustee on Insane Asylum and Almshouse Board.

Upon the invitation of Supt. Osborne the county board members inspected the beet sugar factory this afternoon. Business was resumed shortly after two o'clock and one of the first acts was to elect the successor of W. J. McIntyre as supervisor of assessments. The formal ballot resulted: W. W. Gilles, 1; F. P. Starr, 25; Charles Cleophas, 7; W. J. McIntyre, 2. F. P. Starr, the present county clerk, was declared elected. Prior to this vote the compensation for the supervisor was raised from $3 to $3.50 for each day's actual day's work.

Trustees of Institutions
W. J. McIntyre was elected trustee of the insane asylum and almshouse for three years. S. B. Konyon was re-elected superintendent of the poor. The question of consolidating the two school districts was taken up and Supervisor Campton of Harmony moved that the committee appointed to bring such consolidation about be discharged and that the two school superintendent districts remain separate as heretofore. This precipitated a hot debate.

Meet Next January
It was moved and seconded that when the board adjourns, it do so to meet again on January 11, 1905. The proposal to inaugurate a $500 traveling library in Rock county was yesterday rejected.

GOLF CLUB PLAN A NOVEL SMOKER

Features That Are a Secret Will Be
Sprung on the Unsuspecting Guests.

There is a possibility that when the members of the golf club assemble next Tuesday evening at their annual smoker that three distinguished citizens of the state and noted politicians will be present to inspire the gathering with wit and wisdom. The committee in charge of the evening have issued formal invitations to ex-Governor George W. Peck, William D. Hoard, and Governor Robert M. La Follette. No definite word has been received from these gentlemen as yet, but it is expected that they will be present. The committee in charge of the evening have determined to allow each member of the club to bring guests with him and it is probable that fully two hundred citizens of Jansville will be present at the gathering.

WERE WEDDED BY REV. M'GINNITY

Martin Costello and Miss Catherine
Ryan Took Their Vows

Yesterday Morning.

Martin Costello and Miss Catherine Ryan were wedded at St. Patrick's church at half-past seven o'clock Thursday morning by Rev. J. J. McGinnity. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie Ryan, while James Slack, a cousin of the groom, acted as best man. Following the wedding ceremony a sumptuous four course luncheon was served, relatives and immediate friends participating. The bride wore a gown of grey polre de sole trimmed with lace and ribbon and the maid of honor was attired in a gown of pale pink cashmere trimmed with cream lace. Mrs. Costello is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ryan and is a young lady with a host of friends in this city. The groom is an employee of the Chicago & North-Western railroad and is held in high esteem by all who know him. The young couple departed for Chicago on the 3:55 train, after being showered with the conventional rice at the depot. After a trip to St. Louis they will return to occupy their newly furnished residence at 50 Chestnut street, where they will be at home to friends after December 15.

Chicago Record-Herald: Skintight pants are coming in style again. Bow-legged men will find it harder than ever to be cheerful.

PUTTING IT STRONG.

But Doesn't It Look Reasonable? This may read as though we were putting it a little strong, because it is generally thought by the majority of people that Dyspepsia in its chronic form is incurable or practically so. But we have long since shown that Dyspepsia is curable, nor is it such a difficult matter as at first appears.

The trouble with Dyspepsia is that they are continually dieting, starving themselves, or going to opposite extremes or else deluging the already overburdened stomach with "bitters" after dinner pills, which invariably increase the difficulty even if in some cases they do give a slight temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomach simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is a rest. Now how can the stomach become rested, recuperated, and at the same time the body nourished and sustained.

This is a great secret and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. This is a comparatively new remedy but its success and popularity leaves no doubt as to its merit.

The Tablet will digest the food anyway, regardless of condition of stomach.

The sufferer from Dyspepsia according to directions, is to eat an abundance of good wholesome food and use the tablets before and after each meal and the result will be that the food will be digested—no matter how bad your Dyspepsia may be, because, as before stated, the tablets will digest the food even if the stomach is wholly inactive. To illustrate our meaning plainly, if you take 1,800 grains of meat, eggs or ordinary food and place it in a temperature of 98 degrees, and put with it one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets it will digest the meat or eggs almost as perfectly as if the meat was enclosed within the stomach.

The stomach may be ever so weak yet these tablets will perform the work of digestion and the body and brain will be properly nourished and at the same time a radical, lasting cure of Dyspepsia will be made because the much abused stomach will be given, to some extent, a much needed rest. Your druggist will tell you that of all the many remedies advertised to cure Dyspepsia none of them have given so complete and general satisfaction as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not least in importance in these hard times is the fact that they are also the cheapest and give the most good for the least money.

IN THE BUSY CLOTHING STORE TOMORROW

This is a Busy Clothing Store

Great values make great stores. That's where our strength lies. For tomorrow's selling we have gathered together some of the most remarkable items it has ever been our privilege to offer you.

We have taken all of our Men's Suits from the lines we have been selling from during the season at $20, $22.50 and $25, and bunched them together at a price of..... $15.00 for the Suit

And these will be offered for tomorrow only at this price. Among the lot are Single and Double Breast Suits from our very best lines. They are mostly single Suits and only a few where there are two alike. Sizes run from the very small sizes to the largest, so that most anybody can be fitted. And whoever is fortunate enough to get one of these Suits will simply get one of the biggest Suit Bargains we have offered this season. There are Cheviots in rich grays, unfinished Worsteds in the stylish browds, and a line of very stylish-cut Sacks in blacks and blues, both Single and Double Breast styles.

We shall make this Saturday a day of bargains throughout all our departments

In connection with our Suit Sale we shall offer a 10 per cent reduction from the price of any Overcoat in the store also for this day only.

IN THE CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT

We were never so well prepared to take care of the young generation.

Stylish Overcoats with belt back or belt around the waist, at $3.00, 4.00, 5.00 and $6.00 Something extremely nobby.

Nobby Suits for the little lads 3 to 7 years, at $2.50 to $6.00.

For the bigger Boys, 8 to 16, the swellest lines of Suits we have offered at any time this season, at $3.00, 4.00, 5.00 and $6.00.

Boys who appreciate good clothes are swelling the list of "American Boy" subscribers every day. The December number will be ready about December 1st; and will be one of the finest issues that the publisher of the very famous Boy's Magazines has yet issued.

REMEMBER—We give absolutely free with every purchase of $4.00 or over in our Boys' Department a whole six months' subscription to the "American Boy". A card properly filled out is given each purchaser and we only require that it be presented each month at our Boys' Department, as we shall distribute the magazine from here. Become an "American Boy."

T. J. ZIEGLER CLOTHING CO.

PREVIEW OF THE DECEMBER NUMBER OF THE AMERICAN BOY. It is too early now to accurately enumerate the interesting features of the December number; prominent among them, however, will be the story by Kirk Munroe entitled, "For the Mikado, or a Japanese Middy in Action," a continued story, the first chapters of which appear in the Christmas number. The story will have special interest just now in view of the war between Russia and Japan. Mr. Munroe made a trip to Japan for the purpose of obtaining material for two continued stories for THE AMERICAN BOY for which the publishers of THE AMERICAN BOY paid him two thousand dollars. The first story has already appeared, running through some twelve numbers, and the second story, entitled, as above stated, begins in our Christmas number. This number will contain further chapters of "My Four Years at West Point," written by a graduate, and further installments of "Among the Birds," the editor's talks to boys, and all the departments that have made THE AMERICAN BOY so popular. In addition there will be several fine Christmas stories, and notably an article regarding Ex-Senator Thomas W. Palmer of Michigan and his log cabin home, the article being the result of an interview obtained with Senator Palmer for THE AMERICAN BOY; it is beautifully illustrated. The Christmas number will be especially notable for its live pictures. Every page will catch the eye and hold the attention of the boys. Particularly will this be true of the article on "How a Boy May Use the Backyard," which is illustrated by photographs taken by the author of the article, showing what a boy has done and what every boy can do in an ordinary town lot. It is within the bounds of reason to say that THE AMERICAN BOY for December will be the most attractive publication ever put out in the interest of boys.
